Orders Meat Plants Seized

The White House announced today the Department of Agriculture would seize and operate the nation's strike-bound meat packing plants Saturday. The announcement was made by

House Probes Army Order to Obey Picket Line

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Chairman May (D.) of Kentucky today ordered immediate House military committee investigation of charges Army truck drivers in the Third Service Command have been ordered not to cross meat strikers' picket lines without union approval.

The charge was made by Rep. Howard Smith (D.) of Virginia who read the House a telegram from the commanding general (Maj. Gen. Mantion S. Eddy) at Baltimore directing "until further orders Army trucks under your command will not be permitted to cross picket lines established by striking meat packing unions without agreement with the local labor representatives concerned."

Smith said the telegram was sent to all installation commanders in the Third Service Command, which embraces Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Delaware.

Both Smith and Rep. Cox (D.) of Georgia requested the military committee to investigate. Cox told the House:

"This thing makes the whole Army stink."

Smith said: "I never expected to live to see the day when the dictatorship of any labor union or other private organization over the government of the United States would reach the disgraceful stage when the commanding officers of the U. S. Army would have to ask the gracious permission of labor officials to allow Army trucks to go about their lawful business in procuring the necessary food and supplies for the armed forces..."

"Are we to understand the general must ask permission of any striking labor union before he can obtain the necessary meat to feed our Army?"

"If the dictators of the labor union decline permission to obtain meat for the soldiers, what, when, where, and how do the soldiers eat? If they cannot eat beef, do they eat pork and beans? And if the pork and beans unions strike, must we then ask permission from that set of dictators—or must the soldiers eat something else?"

Press Secretary Ross shortly after President Truman intervened to halt a threatened strike on two Chicago area shuttle railroads which would have blocked livestock shipments to the Chicago stock yards and disrupted through east and west freight traffic.

Ross said orders for seizure of the meat industry were "now being prepared by the Secretary of Labor" and the seizure would be effected by the Department of Agriculture "with the aid of the War Department, if necessary."

Striking members of the CIO United Packinghouse Workers in New York city voted against returning to work when the government seizes the plants, unless ordered to do so by the union's national committee.

The vote came after Meyer E. Stern, chairman of union district 6, told a meeting "if the government interferes, it won't be in our favor, but in favor of the packers."

Herbert March, district 1 director of the striking CIO United Packinghouse Workers, said seizure by the government without putting the union's wage demands into effect would constitute "strike-breaking action or at best compulsory arbitration."

March said his district was opposed to seizure of the industry "unless there are sufficient guarantees that the wage demands will be put into effect by the government upon taking over."

The length of time after the government seizure before the nation can expect a normal meat supply is unpredictable until terms of the seizure order are studied, a spokesman for the American meat industry said.

Shortly after the announcement that the plants would be seized, the AFL Meat Workers' Union ordered its men back to work Saturday.

Earl Jimerson, president, and Patrick E. Gorman, secretary-treasurer of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of America, issued a statement saying as "loyal Americans" they had ordered their members in struck plants of Armour, Swift, Cudahy, Wilson, Kingman and Morrell companies back to work effective Saturday.

President Truman, acting under the railway mediation law, created an emergency board to investigate the dispute involving the Indiana Belt Railroad, the Chicago Junction Railroad and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. The strike had been set for 11:30 tonight.

$6 Steel Price Boost Discussed

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)

—The Iron Age said today a steel price increase of $6 a ton reportedly has been talked over as a means of ending the nation's largest steel strike.

"The Iron Age has been told the 'price situation is open at both ends,' the publication said.

"By this it was meant that neither the $2.50 per ton increase on steel products on which Price Administrator Chester Bowles once firmly stood, nor the $4 increase said to have later been approved by the President, is any longer a limiting factor."

Despite expected seizure of the plant by the federal government, union leaders said today strikers at the John P. Airport Tunnel Plan by Curley

By FRANK REILLY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—Mayor Curley sought federal financial aid today for a proposed East Boston tunnel extension to Logan Airport and also registered his opposition to a War Department plan for construction of a new Meridian st. bridge in East Boston.

As he started for the War Department to oppose the $1,500,000 new bridge ordered at Meridian st. Curley said:

"We don't need it any more than a cat needs two tails. I'm opposing its construction as unnecessary and an imposition on Boston's taxpayers. I'm going to ask the War Department to abandon its plan to assess the city $5000 per month penalty if construction is not started before April."

In his conference with the public works officials, Curley sought a cash contribution from federal funds to aid in construction of the rapid transit extension to the airport.

for Local 165, United Packinghouse Workers, CIO, declared.

The threatened strike of 1000 meat cutters, members of Local 11, UPHW, CIO, is scheduled to begin at midnight Thursday in support of the demand for a 25 cent an hour pay boost.

The new strike, should it become effective, would close seven independent packinghouses in this area and increase the list of scarce fresh meats to include frankfurters, sausages and bologna, now being used as substitutes. Smoked and pickled meats would also be included.

The plants named by Local 11 include those of Handchumacher & Co., New England Provision Co., Boston Sausage & Provision Co., Colonial Provision Co., Omaha Packing Co., M. M. Mades Inc., and Rothmund Co. Only one, the Handchumacher Co., does any slaughtering, the others being engaged only in packing, processing and manufacturing.

The OPA struck out against a growing black market in meat, warning slaughterers and dealers their purchases would be closely watched.

Nearly all fresh meat, except that coming from independent dealers, was exhausted from the Boston market today. Fish was almost as scarce as fresh meat.

In Springfield, Armand Rivet, president of the UPHW local of the strike-bound H. L. Handy Co. plant, threatened to withdraw refrigeration crews, leaving an estimated 1500,000 pounds of meat in danger of spoilage.

Rivet charged the company violated picket lines Monday by sending an office force into the plant. He said four engineers, four firemen and three temperature men were permitted to continue work to protect meat. All are union members.

OK Dome Gilding

The joint ways and means committee of the legislature approved today a plan to regild the dome of the State House which was painted a dull gray as a wartime measure.

The regilding was recommended by Gov. Tobin in his opening message. The committee drafted a bill to appropriate $20,000.

Atomic Nightmare--Can It Happen?

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—The nightmare of an atomic war of annihilation exploding accidentally from a defective bomb fuse or a maniac's thumb jabbing a fatal button was conjured up today by Maj. Gen. J. F. C. Fuller.

The British military analyst likened the atomic weapon to a sword of Damocles suspended over the world's head.

The slender thread holding that sword might be cut "willynilly" in event of another war, he said, "but on account of the tension in which all nations will live, it is far more likely to be severed."

2—Boston American, Jan. 23

accidentally." Then he mentioned bad fuses on atomic rockets and maniacs who might gain access to control panels as instruments of disaster.

Writing in the service magazine, Army Ordnance, Fuller gave his conception of the outbreak of an atomic war:

"Instead of cities being walled in as in the Viking age, we can picture whole countries girt about by radar sets, ceaselessly 'listening in' for the first note of the broadcast of annihilation.

"In the vicinity of these instruments will be hidden away two tactical organizations of atom-charged and propelled rockets—the one offensive, the other defensive. The first will be ranged on every great foreign city in the world, because before war is launched (to declare it would be sheer madness), no single nation will know who among the rest is the true enemy.

"The second organization will be directed by the radar sets, and as soon as they signal a flight of offensive rockets speeding toward them, the defensive rockets will automatically be released by radar to speed into the heavens and explode in whatever cubic space in the stratosphere radar decides the enemy's offensive rockets will enter at a calculated time.

"Then, miles above the surface of the earth, noiseless battles will be fought between blast and counterblast. Now and again an invader will get through, and up will go London, Paris, or New York in a 40,000-foot high mushroom of smoke and dust; and as nobody will know what is happening above or beyond or be certain who is fighting whom—let alone what for—the war will go on in a kind of bellicose perpetual motion until the last laboratory blows up."

A possible age of abundance, with economic causes of war eliminated by ample, atomic-released energy, is a more hopeful alternative, Fuller declared.

In such an event, he said, "it will become clearly apparent in a world governed by economic sanity that destruction is not a profitable aim in war."

"It will be seen that the less destructive are the means of waging war, the more profitable will be the peace," Fuller predicted.

"Therefore, armies of the future will have to be so organized that they can rapidly occupy an enemy's country and not, as now, rapidly annihilate it. Because atomic energy will provide man with all but unlimited power of locomotion through the air, whether by jet-propelled aircraft or by rocket ship, it is more than probable that the fighting forces of the future will be designed around one or the other of these vessels."

Vast Cape Search For 3 in Jail Break

BARNSTABLE, Jan. 23—Three prisoners, described as "dangerous criminals of the worst sort," slugged two guards on the head today and escaped from Barnstable County Jail, setting in motion the biggest man-hunt on Cape Cod since the Peggy McMath kidnapping of 1934.

A statewide alarm was sent out as soon as the daring break was discovered and police guards were posted at the Bourne and Sagamore bridges across Cape Cod Canal.

The guards, Warren Ryder, 42, of Barnstable, and Harold Jacobs, 58, of Centerville, were in critical condition at Cape Cod Hospital, suffering from possible skull fractures.

Sheriff Lauchlan M. Crocker organized a posse of more than 50 State and local police to scour the Cape for the men. Bloodhounds from the Rhode Island State Police were being used.

Although the man had almost a four-hour lead on their pursuers, Crocker said he doubted that they had left the Cape.

The searchers worked through the wooded land toward Hyannis along Finley's Lane. Army and Navy planes from near-by fields were expected to join in the hunt.

The escaped prisoners were Augustine Barbarosa, alias

Jerald K. Ellis

Herbert R. Boomhower

Augustine Barbarosa

James Gomes, 31, of Provincetown, Herbert R. Boomhower, Jr., 20, of Falmouth, and Jerald K. Ellis, 17, of Hyannis.

Barbarosa, recently released from Rhode Island State Prison, was charged with a series of breaks on Cape Cod.

Boomhower, native of Cambridge, was awaiting grand jury action on six burglary counts including a charge he broke into Coanmesett Ranch, Falmouth.

Ellis was serving 2½ years for larceny and carrying a gun without a permit.

The sheriff said the men were not armed so far as he could determine.

The three fashioned dummies in their beds, according to the sheriff, and were thus accounted as being in their cells when the night checkup was made at 9 p. m.

For six hours the men hid in the basement of the two-story building. At 2:20 a. m., while Jacobs was in the basement making a routine checkup, the trio attacked him. His cries for help brought Ryder.

Both guards were slugged unconscious by the prisoners with iron pipe they found in the cellar.

U. S.-Bound War Brides Cut Through Red Tape

PERHAM DOWN BRIDE CAMP, TIDWORTH, England, Jan. 23 (AP)—American soldiers bounced babies on their knees to keep them happy today while 625 U. S.-bound brides sped through Army red tape preparatory to sailing on the liner Argentina Saturday to join their husbands.

Brides without babies went swiftly through inspections and medical examinations in a converted movie theater.

Those with youngsters had complications. A slight delay developed in the mixing of feeding formulas until GI's rounded up a kettle big enough to hold 52 cans of evaporated milk, 52 quarts of water and 120 ounces of sugar, (the old milk supply provided at Red Cross headquarters).

Col. Thomas A. Houston, who originated the "Houston footlocker crib" by converting half-size soldiers' trunks into baby beds, found that Army supplies—even helmets—could bridge the gap for mothers who forgot to bring "potties" for their youngsters.

In a huge warehouse German prisoners sweated over piles of trunks and British baby buggies. Blond Margaret Gerdus, en route to join Donald E. Gerdus, USNR, who hopes to teach in the United States, has been teaching evacuated English children during the war.

A former WAAF, Marjorie Guider, wife of former PFC Harry P. Guider, lectured some of the impatient girls.

"I'm used to waiting and filling out forms and sleeping 20 in a room after four years in the WAAF. This seems to be going pretty fast," she said.

Sylvia Plekac dug in her trunk for musical scores so she could sing to the girls. She was a singer with a hotel band.

"When I get to my husband I'm just going to be a housewife," she said.

Hila Florence Scersa, 23, wife of S-Sgt. Frank Scersa, was to sail with her 21-year-old Aunt Vera, wife of M-Sgt. Albert R. Schmidt, but they haven't found each other yet.

36 N. E. Vets Are Notified British Brides Set to Sail

Announcement in London that 600 dependents of American servicemen and discharged veterans will sail for the United States Saturday aboard the SS Argentina was news today to most of the 36 New Englanders whose war brides will be among those aboard, as only a few of the husbands had received last minute cables from their wives. Eleven babies—eight girls and three boys—will accompany the wives of the New Englanders to their new homeland.

Twenty-seven of the GI brides are bound for Massachusetts, two each for New Hampshire and Vermont, four for Rhode Island, and one for Maine. The husbands of 13 are residents of Greater Boston.

One of the English brides, Marianna Antoinette Connolly, is a cousin of Ida Lupino, noted film star. She married Francis M. Connolly, 35, ex-Marine sergeant, of Massachusetts a. e., Arlington, while he was in London as personal orderly to Adm. Harold R. Stark. She is sailing with her baby, Kenneth M. Connolly.

Another English bride sailing for the United States is the wife of Arthur J. Girling, of Gay St., Westwood, discharged as a staff sergeant last Nov. 6. They have not seen each other since September, 1944.

Girling followed in his father's footsteps, for the youth's mother and the older Girling were married in England while the father was overseas with the Army in World War I.

Also looking forward to a reunion with his wife and baby is former PFC Arthur W. Strand of Pleasant st., Dorchester. His English wife, Lena, and their 10-months-old daughter, Barbara, are among those making the trip.

The Bay Staters whose wives will sail Saturday include D. A. Chase of Howland ave., Adams; A. D. Chipman of Newton st.,

Cambridge; Francis G. Conley of Armadine st., Dorchester; Anthony C. Conino of Pearl st., Somerville; Herschel P. Berry of Summer st., East Bridgewater; Roland A. Boullais of Kelsey ave., West Springfield; Robert J. Morin of Main st., Haverhill.

Nazi Cruiser 'Sunk' Off Hub

The wartime scourge of the North seas, the German heavy cruiser Prinz Eugen, was "attacked and sunk" by Navy air and surface craft today less than 12 miles from Boston as she completed an Atlantic crossing.

The simulated attack was carried out by two torpedo bombers, eight Hellcat fighter bombers and several surface craft operating on radioed orders from Fargo Barracks, South Boston.

While the planes zoomed mast high and the small patrol craft sent "torpedoes" crashing into her sides, the prize ship moved into Pier 6, South Boston Navy Yard annex.

She was commanded by Capt. Arthur H. Graubert, USN, with Capt. J. A. Reinicke of the erstwhile German navy in charge of the crew of 574 German sailors and 27 officers. Nine American officers and 80 men were aboard to supervise operations.

Among the American personnel aboard was Lt. Com. R. P. Jeffrey of Boston, supply officer.

The German officers and crew will be granted restricted liberty while the Eugen is in Boston. They will be returned to Bremerhaven.

Dealer Loses In City Hall Rug Battle

When it comes to making rugs fly around the boys in the Arabian Nights had nothing on the boys in City Hall.

Since last May when former Mayor John E. Kerrigan bought six Oriental rugs, including one $3600 number, floor coverings have been whizzing in and out of offices like patronage-seekers. The first to move was the old rug in the mayor's office which "flitted" over to the sanctum of Park Commr. William F. Long to make room for that $3600 pb. Then three of the original half-dozen rugs were sent back to Adailian Brothers, rug merchants, when critics hollered about a $6200 expenditure without previous okay by the council.

The council, thinking to stop the geni haunting the Hall, approved the balance of $4500 due. Same inauguration day and Mayor Curley called for the old rug to be returned from Long's office to the mayor's sanctum. That sent the swank $3600 job out to nobody-knows-where.

Today, City Auditor Charles J. Fox climaxed the whole affair by disapproving the $4500 bill still owed the Adailians. He said the whole thing was wrong because the council had illegally appropriated the money in the first place.

That leaves Adailian wondering what to do with a flock or second-hand rugs which moved faster than some of the people who were supposed to walk on them.

These Days Reasons for Strikes

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1944, King Features Syndicate

IN EFFECT, this country is in the throes of a general strike. Labor is not at work. Management is at a standstill. Reconversion has ceased. The government is a ship without a rudder.

It is not over wages, hours or working conditions; all of these are easily adjustable.

It is not over collective bargaining; that has been recognized in principle by industry, but has been reduced in effectiveness by the war powers of the President which substitute for "bargaining," the order, the ukase, the mandate of the government bureau in charge.

It is not over unemployment; actually there is not enough population in this country to fill all jobs that might be made available by the boom prospects of a productive nation that still has the world as a market because none of the other great producers are in a position to meet even their own demands.

What then are these strikes about?

It is over a complex of causes which may be diagrammed as follows:

LABOR'S VIEW

1—It does not pay to work because the purchasing power of the dollar is constantly receding. The OPA has not, in spite of all the ballyhoo of its current managers, been successful in flouting the law of supply and demand.

The black market therefore continues to operate even more competently than the bootleggers did during prohibition.

The result is that the dollar does not buy what the individual wants or needs or thinks he needs. Unless money can buy, money has no immediate value.

If then a worker is to have a reduced total weekly income, popularly called the "take home wage," in a market of rising prices, he sees no reason for taking it.

And, curiously, he does not blame faulty government policies and operations; he blames his employer, who is really as helpless as he is. The government is the catalyst of trouble.

2—The worker is neither desperate nor helpless. I am not talking about exceptions, of which obviously there are many. Generally speaking, the worker has cash on hand. He has savings; he has bonds; he has accumulated compensation. He can last a while without working. He can gamble on some improvement in wages and in purchasing power.

3—The labor leader is fighting for his union and its power. In the Roosevelt Administration, the C. I. O. could depend upon the White House to pull everything through by one method or another, by seizure of the plant, by charming appeal, by a speech over the radio, by the utilization of war contracts, RFC, income tax investigations, anything, in their interest.

The Truman Administration lacks similar skill and understanding. Every step of the President or his advisers adds to the confusion.

Mr. Truman seems unable to deal in general principles. He can improvise politically, but, lacking breadth of knowledge of the country and its leading personalities, he turns for advice to those whom he knows personally—men of small affairs like himself, without national experience.

His confusions are tragic.

46 DIE IN GERMAN MINE

BRUNSWICK, Germany, Jan. 23 (AP)—Forty-six German coal miners were killed and one was seriously injured today when a cage lowering them in a shaft fell.

MANAGEMENT'S VIEW:

1—Management cannot function efficiently with constant and increasing interference by government and the unions.

American industry suffers now from a decreasing efficiency. Just as labor uses the phrase "take home wages," so managements uses the term "headache." It just does not pay to take the "headaches."

Nobody needs to live that way. Nobody needs to earn a living that way, particularly if a man has a dollar in the bank and an inflated stock in his box.

Nobody needs to put up with Walter Reuther's guff or with the silliness and attitudinizing of the various government boards.

2—Management in the United States is trained to produce profits—an adequate compensation for the use of tools and adequate savings to replace tools.

It knows no other reason for operating. It cannot produce efficiently or at a profit under current government policies; therefore, it cannot operate at all.

The present plague of strikes in most instances arises from these causes. These are the American strikes.

A few strikes are due to Communist intervention, but these are imitative of the general situation.

Both labor and management despise and suspect the Communists, who are the agents of a foreign power.

Fr. O'Callahan Gets Highest U. S. Honor

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—Com. Joseph T. O'Callahan of Cambridge, Mass., whose heroism as chaplain aboard the blazing aircraft carrier Franklin helped save the lives of 300 of his shipmates, today received the nation's highest award—the Congressional Medal of Honor—from President Truman, in a ceremony at the White House.

Prior to receiving the medal, Fr. O'Callahan went to the chapel of Georgetown University where he celebrated a private mass which was attended by his mother, three brothers and other members of his family.

First Jesuit priest to enlist in the naval service during World War II, he was aboard the 27,000-ton carrier Franklin when she was set ablaze and torn by explosions after being hit by Japanese aerial bombs only 60 miles off the coast of Japan last March 19.

The story of the carrier's fight to live and her return to Hawaii and then to New York city with her original crew became one of the epics of the war.

In making the award President Truman grasped Com. O'Callahan's hand and shook it vigorously as he praised the chaplain for having done his duty "to God and man."

tions of Fr. O'Callahan, whose commander called him "the bravest man I ever knew," read in part:

"With the ship rocked by incessant explosions, with debris and fragments raining down and fires raging in ever-increasing fury, he ministered to the wounded and dying, comforting and encouraging men of all faiths. He organized and led fire-fighting crews into the blazing inferno on the flight deck and directed the jettisoning of live ammunition and the flooding of the magazine. . . . At risk of his own life above and beyond the call of duty . . ."

The Navy chaplain spent the past 24 hours at Georgetown University infirmary suffering from a severe cold and sore throat.

Present today at the ceremonies were his mother, Mrs. Alice E. O'Callahan of Leonard ave., Cambridge; a brother, John T., and his wife; a sister, Mrs. Edward P. O'Brien and her husband; two uncles, City Councilor James J. Casey and John T. Casey, and an aunt, Miss Mary A. Casey, all of Cambridge.

Famous Newport Estates Impress UNO Group in R. I.

World famed magnificent estates of Newport were viewed today by the UNO site committee during their tour of Rhode Island.

The delegates were greatly impressed as they rode along the "10-Mile-Drive" of society's favorite resort and saw the huge and costly mansions of John Jacob Astor, Frederick H. Prince, Mrs. August Belmont, Doris Duke Cromwell, Cornelius Vanderbilt and many other industrial and social leaders.

The committee has been offered two estates and gifts. These are the "Ochre Court" property owned by Robert Goellet, and Sea View Terrace, built at a cost of $3,000,000 by Edson Bradley, now owned by the city.

The committee left Providence this morning accompanied by Gov. John O. Pastors, President Henry W. Wriston of Brown University and J. Nicholas Brown, chairman of the Rhode Island committee.

First site viewed was the Samuel Colt estate on Poppasquash Neck, Bristol, overlooking Narragansett bay. Dr. Stoyan Gavrilovic, chairman of the committee, commented on the "magnificent scenery and beautiful sea view."

After inspecting estates on Newport's waterfront, the committee went to the Muenchinger-King Hotel in Newport for lunch. Later they again boarded buses to view the 50-square-mile area surrounding "Chop Mist Hill," near Gloucester, Foster and Scituate.

After viewing this area the group will return to Providence for dinner and are expected to return to Boston late tonight.

Tobin Budget 81 Million, State Surplus Vanishing

Appropriations of $68,635,000, plus $13,100,000 for new construction, were recommended today by Gov. Tobin in the 1946-47 State budget which he sent to the Legislature.

The Governor also sent to the Legislature recommendations asking for expenditures of $48,000,000 for the construction and repair of roads.

The program covers a five-year period and the Governor said that $19,000,000 would be expended in the next fiscal year.

The departmental appropriations are $6,593,127 more

Short Puts Full Blame on Washington

By WILLIAM THEIS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (INS)—Gen. Walter C. Short charged today that the War Dept. in Washington was "wholly responsible" for the Pearl Harbor disaster.

The 1941 Hawaiian army commander told the Pearl Harbor committee that while he may have erred in not having an all-out alert before the Jap attack, Washington's failure to give him all available information made that error "probable."

Asked if Washington should be held "partly responsible" for the surprise attack of Dec. 7, 1941, Short responded immediately: "I would say wholly responsible."

He was then asked whether any failure to correct his estimate from Washington relieved him of his responsibility as field commander. Short answered:

"Yes, sir. The chief of staff (Gen. Marshall) has stated before this committee that I had a right to assume that I would be corrected."

Sentence Roxbury Man in Boys' Prank

Pleading guilty to a charge of contributing to delinquency of minors by buying liquor for them, Albert Hubley, 56, of Lansing st., Roxbury, was given a three months suspended sentence and placed on probation for a year by Judge Nelson P. Brown in Suffolk Superior Court.

Hubley was arrested after police had taken into custody five boys following a disturbance on Warren st., Roxbury, during which, police say, the boys removed a street car trolley and imprisoned the operator and pass-

P. O. Officials, Clergy At Dinand Funeral

Postal officials and members of the clergy joined with hundreds of friends today to pay final tribute to John F. Dinand, superintendent of the railway mail service in New England, at a solemn requiem high mass at St. Angela's Church, Mattapan.

than those recommended for the present year, but represent a reduction of $1,711,000 from the actual appropriations for the current fiscal year.

Imposition of a straight 2 per cent tax on the gross revenues of utilities instead of the present assessments was recommended. The governor said the State would double its present revenue of $4,500,000 received from this source.

The departmental budget, he pointed out, is $7,000,000 higher than the normal 1941 state payroll. This, he explained, will take care of wages to returning veterans in the state service, fill vacancies and cover any upward revision of wages.

A state surplus of $19,231,255 as of June 30, 1945, will have shrunk to $9,609,796 by June 30 of this year, and to $49,796 at the end of the period covered by the budget, the message disclosed.

Largest of the new projects recommended is for construction and equipping of a 200-patient hospital for mentally deficient children at the former Army camp Myles Standish in Taunton. The Governor asked $5,500,000 for purchase of the property and construction.

He also recommended $5,100,000 for construction of an 800-bed hospital for the chronically ill. This he said could be built in Stoneham on land owned by the Metropolitan District Commission. Construction of a new State Prison at Bridgewater, costing $2,500,000, was also recommended. Other items in the capital outlay program are $200,000 for new equipment and machinery at three state textile institutions and $100,000 for repairs and renovations to state owned property.

The governor noted that the budget was prepared without provision for levying a state tax. In his inaugural address a year ago he recommended the abolition of such a tax.

He pointed out that under the state constitution he could not levy a state tax because the budget as presented balanced, and the constitution provides for the levying of the tax only in case of a deficit.

His postwar highway program will be for a "substantial figure," Gov. Tobin declared, but no increase in the present gasoline taxes will be asked.

The program, he said, if attacked in the right way, can be completed within five years without such increase. At the end of that period, the Governor said, "I can see no reason why it should not be reduced."

State revenues for the 1946-47 fiscal year are estimated at $59,075,000, as compared with an estimated revenue of $57,225,000 for the current year and actual revenue of $63,841,483 in the fiscal year which ended June 30 of last year.

The budget included four major increases. Largest is an increase of $1,067,850 in the mental health department to fill vacancies, take care of increased food costs and pay for equipment and repairs.

In his highway program for this year the Governor asked for $10,000,000 for the federal aid program; $3,000,000 for gaps and bridges and $1,500,000 for Metropolitan Commission construction.

Also included were appropriations of $4,976,000 for road construction in communities.

The legislature was also asked to borrow $4,500,000 on a bond issue, this amount to be matched later by federal funds.

EUGENE A. HUDSON May Get Superior Judgeship

Tobin Names His Secretary to Superior Court

Gov. Tobin submitted the appointment of his chief secretary, Eugene A. Hudson, of Somerville, to the executive council today for confirmation as superior court judge to succeed the late Judge Joseph Walsh, of New Bedford.

Hudson, who became Tobin's chief secretary little more than a month ago after his discharge from the Air Force as a lieutenant colonel, is a graduate of Suffolk University.

The name of Atty. John M. Deely, of Lee, whom Hudson succeeded in the Tobin secretariat, was submitted for confirmation as the trustee of Massachusetts State College, replacing David J. Malcom, whose term has expired.

Also submitted was the appointment of James H. Mooney, Boston building commissioner at the time of the Coconut Grove disaster, to the Bureau of Standards in the State Department of Public Safety, to replace Henry T. Wroblek, resigned.

Joseph P. Cairns, of Cambridge, former resident engineer on the North Metropolitan sewer and Quabbin aqueduct projects, was appointed associate commissioner of public works to replace Joseph P. Deever, resigned.

Dr. Henry Dunphy, of Palmer, was named associate medical examiner in the First Hampden District, succeeding the late Dr. Thomas H. Greenway, and the Governor also submitted the reappointments of Dr. Thomas P. Kendrick, Brookline, as Eighth Norfolk District medical examiner, and Dr. Marshall Colcord, Southbridge, for the Eighth Worcester District.

The Rev. Hugh F. Blunt, pastor of St. John's Church, Cambridge, censor librorum of the archdiocese and a diocesan consultant, was named trustee of the Free Public Library Commission, replacing John A. Lutter, resigned.

Police Seize Cards, Dice in 'Vacant' Store

A raiding squad led by Capt. Edward B. Cain of the Dudley station smashed into a supposedly vacant store in Warren st., Roxbury, today and seized a dice table, five sets of dice, playing cards and other furnishings. Capt. Cain said a complaint would be sought against the owner.

Husband's Fake Confession Stirrs Court

Anthony Burke of Central sq., East Boston, who allegedly confessed last Saturday to a robbery for which his wife and another man have been serving time since last November, repudiated the confession today in Suffolk Superior Court.

His assertion that Atty. Leslie L. Landers, counsel for his wife, had told him to "have a good story ready to convince the judge" caused such a stir that Chief Justice John P. Higgins ordered the courtroom cleared.

Burke's statement came on the motion of Landers for a new trial for Joseph Alorosa of Amory ave., Jamaica Plain, and Mrs. Ann E. Burke, who were found guilty of conspiracy to rob and the robbery of Felix Paresse of the South End last October.

Alorosa is serving a three to five-year term at Norfolk prison colony while Mrs. Burke is confined at Sherborn reformatory. Landers said Burke signed a statement at the reformatory allegedly confessing the robbery.

Burke admitted signing the statement under oath. "But it's false," he declared. "I only did it to help my wife get out. She said she had been promised that she would be released and given a job at the reformatory."

As Landers started to interrupt, Burke continued: "You told me when we were in the car last Saturday that I had to have a good story ready to convince the judge."

Such a murmur arose that Judge Higgins ordered the courtroom cleared. He took the case under advisement.

Liquor, Cruelty Win Hub Divorces

One week after she married Harry Kramer, Mrs. Josephine Berlandi Kramer testified in probate court today, she discovered he was living with another woman. She found, moreover, the other woman also was his wife and had been for some years. She said Kramer in Chelsea court admitted polygamy guilt last March. Judge Frederick J. Dillon granted her an annulment.

Clinton K. Porter of Bay State rd. was given an uncontested divorce for cruel and abusive treatment from Rolande Porter after he testified she drank to excess, stayed out late and hit him with an end table.

Albert E. Purcell of Cambridge st., Allston, also was described as a heavy drinker who beat her and smashed furniture, by Mrs. Irene Purcell as she obtained an uncontested decree.

Melvina C. Fox, who has been living in Falmouth since she left John W. Fox of Boston almost a year ago, said he had a habit of twisting her wrists when angry.

Mrs. Josephine C. White of Chelsea, after 28 years of married life, was granted an uncontested decree from Edward M. White and $30 weekly support for their four children.

Curb on Petrillo Wins First Test

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Legislation which Chairman Lea (D.) of California said was designed to restrain powers of James C. Petrillo, head of the American Federation of Musicians, today was approved, 14-5, by the House interstate commerce committee.

The legislation would prohibit use of threats or force to "coerce, compel or constrain" a radio station "to pay or to agree to pay" tribute for the privilege of producing or using records, transcriptions of mechanical, chemical or electrical reproductions. Maximum penalty of a year's imprisonment and $1000 fine is provided. Moreover, it would prohibit use of force or threats to require a broadcaster to employ any person in excess of the number of employees needed.

Radio stations could not be compelled to refrain from broadcasting non-commercial educational or commercial programs in which participants receive only expenses.

Quincy Mother Of 7 Polygamist

Mrs. Eleanor Pickett, 38, of Quincy, mother of seven children, was today found guilty of polygamy and given a six months' suspended sentence by Judge Kenneth L. Nash in Quincy court.

The charge resulted after Henry H. Coughlin of Roxbury allegedly telephoned Hull police during the search for little Ronnie Carlan of Chelsea, that the baby could be found in Hull, Coughlin is now at Medfield State Hospital.

Mrs. Pickett told the court Joseph Pickett left her two years after they were married. She testified she married Coughlin at Nashua, N. H., in 1938, but said they did not live as husband and wife. He was a "boarder," she told the court.

board, under the law, halts a strike for 60 days.

In Cleveland, A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, announced a strike vote would be taken immediately among its 215,000 members on the basis of unsettled issues involving a general wage increase demand of 25 per cent and improvements in working conditions. He estimated three weeks would be required to distribute and count ballots and added the men would "go into action" if they received no order from the railroads.

Alvanley Johnston, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said that organization's committee would meet Feb. 1, and it is a distinct possibility they will authorize a strike vote among its 78,000 members.

In Washington, Secretary Ross said the Administration still had no immediate plans for further action in the steel strike. When asked if there were any plans for Henry Kaiser to be brought into the picture in an effort to settle the steel strike, he replied, "I know of no such plans."

Kaiser last week signed a contract with the steelworkers for his California steel plant.

The CIO sharply reduced its wage demands on the shipbuilding industry and proposed an increase of 20 cents instead of 36 cents an hour for the nation's 650,000 shipbuilding workers.

The AFL metal trades department, representing roughly 450,000 of the total union labor in the shipyards, will likely support the CIO.

More than 45 coal mines in West Virginia and Pennsylvania, leading coal-producing states, are closed down as a result of the steel strike and other stoppages.

Idle miners in these states and Alabama number more than 14,000. At least 52 mines were closed.

The pinch was felt the most in West Virginia, where two score mines stopped operations. Among them was the Barrackville pit of Bethlehem Steel, employing 1000 miners, largest single producer in the state.

Back Kennedy Plan To Fight Mill Raids

Organized raids on Massachusetts industries by other states, not only in the South but even as near as New York pose a serious problem for the Bay State, Raymond O'Connell, state labor department counsel, declared before the joint committee on state administration today.

O'Connell appeared before the committee to endorse the proposal of a special recess commission headed by Joseph P. Kennedy urging creation of a State Department of Commerce.

"This is a case of dog eat dog," he declared, "and we've got to do the same thing or we are lost. Such a department of commerce would help to prevent these raids on our industry, which is our life blood."

"A state department of commerce also would be valuable in inducing industry and business to come to Massachusetts. This department could dissipate a feeling which prevails throughout the nation that our tax and labor laws are oppressive, although they are not."

He told how he and State Labor Comr. James T. Moriarty had conferred with an official of the Firestone Co. about that concern establishing a Massachusetts plant.

"He told us the only trouble was that the State's labor laws were oppressive. We sat down with him and pointed out where he was in error and the result was that Firestone opened a plant in Fall River and gave employment to 2400 workers," O'Connell said.

"We've been asleep for 20 years," he declared. "In that time more than $1,000,000,000 has left the state and thousands of jobs have been lost. Fall River and Millville were forced into bankruptcy by the loss of industries."

"The competition from other states still is going on. A representative of Tulsa, Okla., was here recently, admittedly seeking Massachusetts industries to move there. A Texas newspaperman was here for the same purpose."

"But it's not only those distant places. I have in my office three letters signed by Gov. Dewey of New York to our top industries, seeking to induce them to move to New York."

"Officials of a leading industry in a small town near Springfield sought tax relief from the assessors to continue operating."

"They were refused and almost overnight moved their machinery to Allentown, Pa. Five hundred workers lost their jobs."

"We've done nothing in the past 20 years either to attract business or industry or prevent it from leaving. We should hang our heads in shame if we don't awaken now from our 20-year slumber."

"A Department of Commerce, staffed by alert, red-blooded workers, could do the job. We need it and we need it now. Either that or instead of saying, 'Massachusetts, there she stands,' we'll be saying, 'Massachusetts, her past secure but with no future.'"

The Smaller Business Men's Ass'n. of New England and the Soda Water Bottlers Ass'n were placed on record in favor of the proposal.

—At least 13 planes discarded by the United States Army have been allocated to airlines of Spain and Argentina, whose governments have been criticized sharply in official American pronouncements.

Eight twin-engined C-47 transport planes have been delivered or earmarked for Spain. Five four-engined C-54 transports went to a commercial airline of Argentina.

Government officials added it was "not unlikely" more surplus Army planes would be sold soon to Spain for its government-dominated Iberian airline, now virtually defunct because of lack of equipment.

The State Department also has approved sale to Spain of nearly $300,000 worth of airport equipment including bulldozers, scrapers, shovel units and dump trucks to improve the Madrid airport.

Big 5 Secretary Deadlock Still On

LONDON, Jan. 23 (AP)—The top men of the five principal powers in the United Nations—the Russian, Vishinsky, attending for the first time—met secretly in the office of Sec. Byrnes today and were reported to have failed again to agree on a candidate for secretary general of the new security organization.

The negative result led some to express fear the five powers were drifting toward a deadlock on the question, made more acute by charges of political interference made by Iran against Russia and by Russia against the British in Greece and Indonesia.

The United States is reported backing Lester Pearson, Canadian ambassador to Washington, for the $20,000 a year post. Russia has advocated Trygve Lie, foreign minister of Norway.

The New City Family

Malcolm E. Nichols, Chairman,
Transit Commission

Malcolm E. Nichols' interest in politics began when he was a boy living in Portland, Me., and asked the then Speaker Tom Reed of the national House of Representatives to take him along on a speaking tour. At Scarborough, Reed let Malcolm speak in his place. It was a Democratic town, but Reed carried it because of the speech.

After his graduation in 1899 from Harvard, Nichols took a job as a reporter and was assigned to City Hall. He served in the City Council and then became a State House reporter.

Nichols served three years in the House and four in the Senate and then, under Mayor Peters, was a Schoolhouse Commission member and Transit Commission chairman, and later Collector of the Port—all preliminary to his term as Mayor from 1926 to 1930.

As Mayor, he secured passage of a bill setting up the metropolitan transit district to meet the Boston Elevated situation, was responsible for the giant Swift River water project. Among many other things, he effected construction of 24 schoolhouses to accommodate 12,000 children.

He went into politics in a strange way. Next to his house was a billboard. He was exasperated when old strips of paper blown from it cluttered up his doorstep.

He complained to the landlord who said he'd been trying for a long time to have something done about it but couldn't.

"Well I can," said Nichols, and despite numerous failures on the part of politicians, he finally had the condition remedied.

Friends were so impressed that they said, "Now why don't you run for the City Council?"

He did and was defeated.

"Why don't you run again?" they said, he did, and was elected.

"And that's how it all began," he said.

Nichols resides in Centre st., Jamaica Plain, with his wife, Carrie M., and three children, Lt. Clarke S., of the Army Air Corps; Dexter, 13; and Marjorie E., 21.

TOMORROW: Michael J. Manning, City Registrar.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—My brother's fiancée tells me that his government insurance is made out to her. In the event of his death, would she collect it all? D. M., Plymouth.

A—Your brother cannot designate a fiancée as his beneficiary. He may designate one of the following persons: Wife, child, parent, brother or sister. It is suggested she write Headquarters First Service Command, Boston, for application forms and more information.

Q—If I accept discharge from the AUS in order to re-enlist in the regular Army, will I be given another physical examination?—C. G., Togus.

A—Results of your physical examination upon discharge from the Army of the United States will be accepted as conclusive evidence of physical qualifications for immediate enlistment in the regular Army. Regular Army men are not obligated to take a physical examination when re-enlisting.

Q—I am a veteran of one year. I have a non-service-connected disability. Is there any provision in the GI Bill for vocational training for me?

A—You may apply for education under the GI Bill according to the length of your active service and the type of discharge received. For vocational training information, we suggest you apply to the Social Security agency or Department of Education in your State for such training under a State plan.

Q—I have been honorably discharged from the WAC for two weeks and would like to know if there is any way I can re-enlist and go back to my old post in N. Y. T. M. P., New Bedford.

A—The Women's Army Corps has not accepted enlistment since September, 1945. There is no authorization for a permanent WAC, and no provisions to re-enlist.

Q—Please let me know in Army answers, just where the 19th Fleet is stationed, and if it's to be there always. And is the Thaddeus Parker DE 369 or DE 368 due in the States shortly? E. F. D., Providence.

A—Suggest you contact First Naval District, 150 Causeway st., Boston, for information pertaining to the Navy.

Flat Puppies for Bobby-Soxers

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 23 (AP)—Today's bobby-soxers may be caught flat-footed as tomorrow's wives.

Dr. Earl C. Elkins of the Mayo

Clinic of Rochester, Minn., explained:

"Moccasins, sandals and the like are as bad for girls as the too-high heels our mothers used to wear."

He predicted continued wear will cause arches to pancake and soon they'll have "sled runners for feet."

Except for appearance, he sounded an optimistic note. Flat feet shouldn't prove to be overwhelming physical handicaps in getting around.

In World War I, he explained, flat feet kept many men out of the Army. In World War II so many cases were encountered that the Army took them anyway.

And, he added, it was surprising how those feet could get over the ground.

Gen. Russell Raps Army Brass Hats

MACON, Ga., Jan. 23 (AP)—Maj. Gen. H. D. Russell, a former commander of the 30th National Guard Division, declared here that "the basic philosophy of leadership, as promulgated by the regular Army, is un-American and out of date."

"It is based on force," he said, "and one of its major premises is the inherent superiority of officers over enlisted men."

A member of the Army board investigating Pearl Harbor, Russell said "the policy of the regular Army in placing professional soldiers in all key positions caused unprecedented waste and delay."

MR. TRUMAN'S FEARS

DESPITE GOOD INTENTIONS, President Truman confuses the national economic scene.

When the Administration, shortly after the shooting phase of the war was over, was seeking to panic Congress into extending State unemployment benefits to six months and $25 a week, official propagandists at Washington were beating the tom toms with dire predictions of far-reaching postwar unemployment.

But the record has belied these frightening predictions.

Shortly after the turn of the year, A. F. Hinrichs, acting Commissioner of Labor Statistics at Washington, testified to the inaccuracy of the forecast.

He correctly pointed out that the postwar unemployment has thus far proved far less serious than was expected before V-J Day.

He further stated that the unemployment in the spring will NOT EVEN APPROXIMATE the 8,000,000 figure that "is still frequently quoted."

Around the same time in his futile Fire-side Chat in which President Truman berated Congress for NOT FOLLOWING THE P. A. C. PROGRAM which he more or less endorsed, Mr. Truman also admitted the error, but inconsistently demanded that Congress follow his advice WHICH WAS BASED ON ADMITTEDLY WRONG INFORMATION.

ALUDING to Congressional inaction on his request for a Federal supplement to State unemployment benefits, Mr. Truman declared:

"WHILE UNEMPLOYMENT HAS NOT REACHED ANYTHING LIKE THE LEVEL WHICH WAS FEARED, there is still need ... etc."

It is destructive of public confidence in leadership when public officials, in the light of subsequent experience, fail to modify their recommendations based on earlier guesses which proved erroneous.

In view of the fact that Federal statisticians and economic managers at Washington had misjudged the near-term post armistice trend, there is all the more effrontery in Mr. Truman's pocket veto of a Congressional rider which would have returned the United States Employment Service to the States within 100 days.

Mr. Truman objected to returning this inherently local service to the States on the ground that the time was inopportune.

The President pointed out that the agencies were busy trying to place returning war veterans and released workers from war plants.

"At such a time, any change in management and direction is necessarily disruptive to the service," President Truman declared.

The record does not support Mr. Truman's remarks.

THE "CURRENT SNARLS and impasses are the effect of goofy thinking by pressure groups and their satellites, resulting in confusion growing out of excessive centralization of functions at Washington, D. C."

In spite of Mr. Truman's fears and inhibitions, the public interest requires DEFLATION OF BIG GOVERNMENT AT THE NATION'S CAPITAL, with a return of responsibility to the States, the localities and the individual citizens.

NEEDLESS DEATHS

WALKING is particularly hazardous in Boston as a result of conditions created by the recent storm.

Parked cars block the vision of pedestrians who step from behind these vehicles into the slippery streets and frequently into the path of on-rushing trucks.

Many are struck and injured—some fatally.

Too many of the victims are children who lack the caution of older people.

Life will be safer and happier in Boston when the Legislature authorizes the construction of a garage under the Common and takes parked cars off the streets.

Some of your hurts you have cured,

And the sharpest you still have survived,

But what tortments of grief you endured

For evils which never arrived!

IT IS EXTREMELY doubtful if George Washington ever threw a silver dollar across any river. However, as a lad he did throw a stone across the Rappahannock at the lower ferry of Fredericksburg, Va. At this point the river is 372 feet wide. In 1936 the Fredericksburg Chamber of Commerce, as a publicity stunt, arranged to have Walter Johnson, the greatest baseball pitcher of all time, try to throw a silver dollar across the Rappahannock at the point where Washington threw the aforementioned stone. This Johnson did with the greatest of ease on Feb. 22, 1936. He threw the silver dollar 386 feet, 14 feet more than necessary to get it across the river.

PLEASE NOTE: Now I have a reader in Japan who states her address is as follows: "Tokyo-To, Azabuku, Shinyu-docho, No. 12, Japan, Asia." She is Japanese but has a thorough knowledge of the English language. She says she has read Dale Carnegie's "How to Make Friends and Influence People" 40 times. And adds: "I would like to get in touch with Mr. Carnegie. Please send me his exact address."

OLD GANG: The "South Side Gang" of Pittsburgh, recently held its 25th reunion. The members of this group were all boyhood pals in the same Pittsburgh neighborhood. I suppose the theme song of the reunion banquet was "That Old Gang of Mine." Anyway, such a reunion is a nice idea. Maybe I'll try to get our old gang of 48th st., Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, together for a banquet next year. Certainly should be an interesting affair.

PASSING BY: Francis X. Bushman. Screen idol of the yesteryear. I guessed that Anita Stewart was Louie Mayer's first star. That was wrong. Mr. Bushman and Beverly Bayne were Louie's first stars. He featured them in a serial production titled "The Master Mind" . . . Blanche Ring. Why try to claim you are a young old timer if you don't remember her singing "I've Got Rings on My Fingers and Bells on My Toes"? If you can tell me the name of the show Blanche sang that in, you don't have to send me a stogie. That is, if you can also name how, when and where she introduced the ditty "In the Good, Old Summertime."

STOGIE DEPARTMENT: The charming cinema chanteuse Vivian Blaine is eating me stogies. I confuse her with Sally Blaine. This inspired demands for stogies from throughout the land. Then I said Vivian was a strawberry blonde. Now innumerable subscribers are claiming she is a "cherry blonde." On this correction I will not pay off until I have a decision from a committee of six recognized experts on the subject of feminine hair coloring. I claim there is no such thing as a "cherry blonde." That term is just the product of a press agent's imagination.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Come, come, Edward, your selection for the Santa Anita handicap is overdue. A little action, please. A—Sirde will win that race. Wing and Wing will be in the money . . . Q—What did you say were the best oysters? A—Why, Cape Cod, of course. The colder the water, the better the oyster . . . Q—In a two or three-handed game of "pitch" what is the lowest bid permissible? The answer is not in Hoyle so we are asking you. A—So it's not in Hoyle and you're asking me. Very flattering. But, gentlemen, you have me stopped. I have never played the card game known as "Pitch." Q—What were the six greatest boners in sports history? A—Why is it people always ask for six of things like that? The three great boners of sports history were: When John Anderson stole second with the bases full. When Fred Merkle failed to touch second. When Roy Riegels ran the wrong way in a Rose Bowl football game. Of course, when Jack Dempsey failed to return immediately to a neutral corner after flooring Tunney in the Chicago fight that was a boner. However, it is hardly ever referred to as such. Another boner rarely discussed is when Starter Curley Brown at the Jacksonville, Fla., track left five horses at the post out of a field of six.

FAIR ENOUGH

Distributed by International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 23.—Absolutely sensational is Leo McCarey's next idea to follow his highly successful "Going My Way" and "Bells of St. Mary's." Leo will bring the story of "Adam and Eve" to the screen, the story of the first man and first woman in the Garden of Eden.

Ingrid Bergman plays Eve and you'll see Jimmy Stewart as Adam. Leo is writing the story with St. Clair McKelway, naturally, for just two people, and of course the serpent.

Am told by Irving Asher, president of Rainbow Co., it will be done with the same dignity Ingrid Bergman that characterized "Going My Way" and "Bells." Leo told me in an interview he never wanted to make a cheap or sensational story. Ingrid's deal to produce with Walter Wanger certainly surprised everyone. It was a coup for Walter, who left for New York next day to see about "Scarlet Street's" censor troubles.

THE DELECTABLE role of Dolly Madison in "The Magnificent Doll" goes to Ginger Rogers. What a chance for the Rogers girl to wear "gorgeous period clothes and to have really a gracious, marvelous role, for Dolly, remember, was the first of the Presidents' wives who brought glamor and charm into the White House, where she ruled as a popular hostess. Jack Skirball and Bruce Manning, who are making "The Magnificent Doll" from Irving Stone's story, have signed La Rogers for this, her first costume picture. Yes, in all the years she's been on the screen she's never been in a period picture that I can remember.

AM SORRY to hear Richard Jaeckel is not playing the boy in "Maggie," with Jeanne Crain and Glenn Langaney. It would have been such a wonderful chance for Dick, who has been off the screen so long, to come back. But he feels he has grown up and, indeed, he doesn't look much like a high school boy.

MIAM BEACH, Jan. 23.—Just before I left Washington to come down here and foment a strike of the Hialeah Muttel Ticket Tearers Up Union, Local 8 to 5, I received a call from Sen. Raymond E. Willis of Indiana.

"You may be interested to know," he said, "that the village of Town Line, New York, is thinking of coming back into the Union."

I had barely concluded with Sen. Willis when Sen. Warren G. Magnuson got on the line.

"It looks like a cinch for Town Line to rejoin the Union," said Sen. Magnuson. "They tell me sentiment in favor of the United States is gaining strength up there."

Now this seemed strange talk from a couple of distinguished members of our august Senate, although I will admit that now and then you hear some very strange talk from that body. I asked for more details and learned both had received this amazing letter from an organization styling itself the Town Line Reconstruction Committee:

"Jan. 24 has been designated as the date for balloting on the resumption of the sovereign power of the United States over Town Line, N. Y., the last lingering stronghold of secession."

"Public opinion here indicates that a return to the Union is most likely. We call this event

He's been overseas and on all these missions in the Merchant Marine. But with Jaeckel's withdrawal from the cast Henry King was lucky enough to get Richard Jaeckel, who can act. He was in "Tomorrow Is Forever" and I'm wagering he will soon be on the Modern Screen poll selected by the youngsters of the country.

ALTHOUGH LUPE Velez died Dec. 14, 1944, and I can hardly believe she's been gone a year, her estate is still tied up. That's what happens when there's litigation. Some settlement may be reached Feb. 4, when her sister, Josephine Velez Anderson, will have a hearing on her suit contesting Lupe's will. As has been pointed so many times, one-third of the estate went to Lupe's mother, one-third to her brother's children and one-third to Lupe's secretary, Mrs. Kinder. Mrs. Anderson is trying to break the will to get a share of the estate.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: The most surprised person in Hollywood to hear that Ann Post is marrying Edmund Lowe, was Eddie himself. I talked with him by telephone to Washington. He said: "How could such a story be circulated? Still hear from Thelma (Lady Furness) regularly, and I take lots of girls out. I have taken Mrs. Post to parties and think she is very charming and lovely. I have no information of getting married." Eddie returns here Feb. 22 to make a Monogram picture. He's been making appearances at the Capitol Theater in Washington and doing very well.

HERE'S A FREE suggestion to M-G-M. They can take it or leave it, but it seems to be pretty good. I have just finished reading Daphne du Maurier's new book, "The King's General," and think it would be a wonderful vehicle for Susan Peters. The heroine, paralyzed at 18 as the result of an accident, spends her life in a wheel chair. But don't think she doesn't have exciting adventures and romance. There's a real love story running through the book, and it should make a wonderful picture.

RICHARD GREENE and his wife, whom Hollywood has never met, land in this country Thursday. Dick went home to London at the beginning of the war and has been away nearly four years. He and Mrs. Greene will enjoy a brief holiday in New York and then proceed to 20th Century-Fox studio, where he is still under contract. He'll play the lead opposite Peggy Cummings in "Forever Amber," although it is possible he may make another movie first.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Sam Wood is very sick and still in the hospital. He hasn't been well enough to finish cutting his picture, "Heartbeat"; the "off and on" marriage of Marilyn Maxwell and John Conte is very much on again. They have been hand-holding in all New York's night spots; the reported visit of the star to the William Landigans was premature, both regret to say; when Gracie Fields returns from overseas she heads right for Mayo Clinic; when Phil Terry heard on the air that he was in Las Vegas to score Joan Crawford, he telephoned her, more indignant than she was, over such an untrue statement. He ordered a plane to get back to town. He had been on a four-day vacation to Death Valley and had merely stopped in Las Vegas with friends. Susan Hayward goes into a hospital to have four impacted wisdom teeth removed; former N. Y. Police Com. Lewis J. Valentine will head for Hollywood to discuss movie offers for his autobiography, "Night Stick."

PAT O'BRIEN gave Eloise a gold and diamond locket with his picture and the three children's; Hope and Buddy Lighten entertained the bride and groom; Millie to score Verna Rothacker at the Beverly Hills Club at dinner; Joan Caulfield, who has been vacationing in the East, returns here the middle of February; Martha Stewart flew to Florida to see Joe E. Lewis—funny thing about their many wedding postponements. Apparently Joe doesn't believe marriage and careers mix; Spencer Tracy reaches here Thursday from New York, where for 10 weeks he has been on the stage; Margaret Whiting puts her whole heart into singing "My Bill" for the records. That's because her romance with Bill Eythe is so hot again. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

to your attention because it transcends local interest. "For the past 84 years factional differences have been recognized and yet controlled public opinion has ebbed and flowed on this matter."

"We have grown into a strong community. We have contributed to all charitable needs and the common weal. We believe in, but still have tested, the basic concepts of democracy. Now we are ready to correct a slight imperfection in our national unity as bequeathed to us by a former generation."

THIS WAS pretty intriguing, so I did a little investigating. My best source of information turned out to be Stephen V. Feeley, Buffalo newspaperman. The facts are these:

Town Line, which is a crossroads hamlet in Erie County, 14 miles from Buffalo, developed strong pro-Confederacy leanings in 1861 after having a lot of trouble with runaway slaves on the underground railway to Canada. Southern girl helped stir up pro-Southern sentiment.

Anyhow, the townfolk held a meeting in the old schoolhouse in the spring of 1861 and voted 80 to 45, to join the Confederacy.

Five men of the village actually joined Lee's Army of the Potomac. It sounds fantastic now, but Lincoln won Erie County by only 2500 votes and there were a lot of Copperheads around there.

Boston After Dark

THE BLACK MARKET is raging currently as it never raged before... Right here in Boston, we mean... Scotch whisky is still attracting huge premiums and tie-ins... ("Under the table" is the trade name for the ever-OFA prices being paid)... As for steak: from 90 cents to $1.25 a pound is the price the gentlemen who pride themselves on serving steaks to all comers are being forced to disgorge by the black marketeers in meat... We have been hearing some real grapes, by the way, from lads recently out of uniform... "There's going to be trouble," one of them guaranteed to this department... "It's almost impossible to buy a civilian outfit without paying tribute to one bandit or another... I came out of the Army, after two years in the Aleutians, with about $1000... I was lucky playing cards."

"WHAT THE homefront has done to my bankroll is something to write home about... Only I'm home now, and I guess I'll have to write my Congressmen and Senators... I have taken names, prices, dates and all the data... At first, I gave up with good grace because I was so glad to be out of service and a free man once more... Then I began to get angry."

I HAVE NEVER been a stool pigeon, but when I thought of those dreary months in the desolate Aleutians, and what the other lads went through farther south, I began to lay out a campaign... I'm going to turn all my facts over to some prosecuting official... The way those lads are prolonging the profits of the pleasant war they spent safe here at home—and doing it with a shrug and a "take it or leave it" attitude—is too much for me.

"IM GOING to try to strike a blow for all of us," he said... "Since I have been checking my expenditures and comparing them with ceiling prices, the discrepancy is more than 50 per cent on the total transactions... Sure, I'm guilty of playing into the black market's hands... But what can I do about it?... What can any of us who were away and come home as strangers to the gypping customs of our native land—why can any of us do about it?... He answered himself, as we had no answer ready... "I don't know how much good it will do, but my present bitter state of mind is forcing me to try to do something... I'm going to turn the rascals in."

A DAY'S RIDE on the back of a burro, which is the South American counterpart of our domestic donkey, and a three-day ride down the Magdalena River in Colombia was the way Inez Clavijo, the Latin Quarter ballerina, started her journey to the United States... She was four years old... It required many years for Inez to arrive in Chicago, although the entire trip was not by burro-back.

AS HER PARENTS worked their way north, Inez was given lessons whenever possible... The Clavijos settled in Chicago, and it was there that Don Arden, the revue stager, found her... He placed her under contract... Senorita Clavijo is a neat dancer and well founded in ballet technique, and she gives authority to the three elaborate dance production numbers in Mr. Arden's current show at the Latin Quarter... Inez is a natural blonde and not at all the tempestuous type we are inclined to accept as typical of Latin America.

JIMMY SAVO'S new material at the Bradford Roof will be pleasing to the Savo fans, and there are many of Jimmy's admirers in Boston... We haven't seen him since that unfortunate revue called "Parade" played at the Colonial 10 years ago...

The Theater Guild, you may recall, produced that one... It shocked Boston first-nighters that the staid, conservative and artistic Theater Guild had been so ineptly taken in by a group of young "leftists" (as they called themselves with some euphemism) that it had produced an out-and-out dish of propaganda for the belshiving of America.

However, the wide-eyed Mr. Savo came out of that disastrous experience all right—only to encounter—if possible—a worse fate... It was cast then by Charles MacArthur and Ben Hecht in a motion picture called "The Blue Ghost."

It was one of two movies produced by that impish duo, and was so utterly bad that it was shelved for years... Someone got enough courage at last to release the picture.

AS MR. SAVO undoubtedly would like to forget all about it, we shall write no more about "The Blue Men."

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Gladham Screamers: June Knight looking like an animated Valentine in a red velvet suit and white ermine toque at the Cot Rouge... Tyrone Power and Annabella Strolling hatless and hand in hand across the lobby of the Pierre... Lillian Gish, the orphan of the storm, meekly making her way through Fifth ave. traffic... Flute-voiced Evelyn Knight looking like a cherub in her calot-cadet... Barbara Bannister, the million dollar baby, holding down a choice seat at the Alvin's "Billion Dollar Baby"... The Blue Angels—Mme. Claude Albrand and M. Jean Sablon drinking a French toast in American champagne... Fay Hunter decorating the bar at the Colony—a study in quiet elegance... Monroed Charles Thompson and spectacled Deems Taylor pleasing eavesdroppers at the Cafe Louis XIV with a different brand of musical discussion—the rhythm of diet!... Gene Kelly, the country's most popular sailor, raising a W. 45th st. cabine a tin and an auto-graph.

TIMES SQUARE NOTES: Gertrude Lawrence looking glamorous as all get-out in a champagne-colored gown visited the Embassy Club the other night and was so tickled by the Wessex Bros' imitation of Hildegarde she asked them to do it again later at her table... Intimates hint that Ann St. George Thompson, separated for several seasons from wealthy "Lex" Thompson, has decided to seek a divorce... Candy Jones has started a new fad. She orders only champagne cocktails wherever she goes—and doesn't drink them, just dunks an apple or a cucumber in the golden bubbly... The Sardi set hears that Maria Kramer, the hotel executive, has joined the ranks of the Broadway angels with an investment in the new production by Charlie Rodgers and Sig Schy, "Ladies by Request"...

... Dick St. Clair, from whom Joan LaRoche is seeking a divorce, may waitz down the aisle with Dwight Deere Wiman's daughter, Anna, when the final papers arrive.

New Show At Shubert

Margaret Webster, hitherto famed for her dramatic and Shakespearean productions, makes her bow as revue director when she stages the sketches for the new Ray Bolger show, "Three to Make Ready," which opens at the Shubert Theater Feb. 7.

Earlier this season Miss Webster bow as revue director when her mother, Dame May Whitty, was starred. All of the Maurice Evans' Shakespearean productions, with the exception of the current "G.I. Hamlet," were staged by Miss Webster.

John Murray Anderson is overall supervisor of "Three to Make Ready," which stars Boston-born Ray Bolger and features Brenda Forbes, Rose Ingham, Jane Deering, Gordon MacRae, Harold Lang, and Arthur Godfrey.

Seats are now on sale at the Opera House box office for the two-week engagement there of the New York musical hit, "Polonaise," which opens next Monday night. The cast, headed by Jan Kiepura and Marta Eggerth, is the same which scored in the long and successful Broadway run. Chopin's immortal melodies are heard in "Polonaise," which depicts one of the thrilling, romantic episodes in the life of the great Polish-American patriot, General Kosciuszko.

After two decades spent making pictures in Hollywood, Massachusetts-born Neil Hamilton has come home to the "legit" theater surroundings from which he sprung. It was during the '20s that director David Wark Griffith discovered the handsome youth on stage here and signed him to a film contract. "America" was his first movie hit. More recent pictures in which he was featured are "Since You Went Away," "Secrets of the Underground," and "I Married a Stranger."

In the Wilbur's psychological play, "Crescendo," Hamilton appears with the celebrated Nance O'Neill, Ralph Morgan (also of stage and screen), Sara Anderson, little Jacqueline Horner and others.

On stage or screen Mary Martin is a name to attract any producer who would like to assure his show of success. Last starred in Boston in "One Touch of Venus," Miss Martin has returned to the Shubert Theater in the musical play that Irwin and Sidney Howard fashioned

FIRST PSYCHO-LOGICAL DRAMA ever to be photographed in Technicolor, "Leave Her to Heaven" boasts the photogenic starring twosome, Gene Tierney and Cornel Wilde. This begins a run on the Metropolitan screen tomorrow

AN INTERESTING international romance is revealed today by Dr. and Mrs. Jerome C. Hunsaker of Louisville, Ky., who announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Alice MacLaurin Hunsaker, to Maj. Thomas A. Bird, M.C., D.S.O., of Oxfordshire, Eng.

For the past year Major Bird has been in Washington as aide to Field Marshal Sir Henry Maitland Wilson.

Miss Hunsaker graduated from Winsor School and from Vassar last June. She belongs to the Junior League and Vincent Club and is studying singing in Boston this winter. Her father is chairman of the national advisory committee for aeronautics and is head of the departments of mechanical engineering and aeronautical engineering at M. I. T.

Major Bird is a member of The Rifle Brigade of the British Army. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Bird of Crockmore, Pawley, Henley-on-Thames, he attended Winchester School and the Architectural Institute in London.

There are no immediate plans for the wedding.

MRS. J. CARTER INCHES (Grace Reed), charming and capable head usher of the Morning Musicals, happily confided to friends at this morning's concert that she expects Carter home from the Pacific within the next few weeks. Her two assistant head ushers, Ginny Palfrey and Jean MacLaurin, were comparing notes on their recent vacations. Ginny has just returned from visiting in Norfolk, Va., and Jean has been skiing in Stowe, Vt.

Virginia Palfrey

Maria Williams came in from Tucson to attend the concert with her mother, Mrs. Lawrence Williams. Mrs. Frank H. Stewart of Newton entertained Mrs. John Balfour of England whose husband, distinguished British statesman and currently minister plenipotentiary in Washington, is speaking at the Women's City Club dinner this evening. Ruth Pissett of Boston, nationally famous violinist, is guest artist.

MRS. JOHN W. WHITE, Mrs. Roger Chilton Williams and Mrs. William Endicott, 2d, will be junior hostesses at Mrs. William Dana Orcutt's next Morning of Diversion, Jan. 30, in N. E. Mutual Hall. Edward A. Weeks, Jr., editor of the Atlantic Monthly, will be guest speaker.

Also serving as hostesses during the pre-luncheon coffee hour will be Mrs. Harold Suttles, Mrs. Lawrence Percival, Jr., Mrs. Eleanor H. Kelper, Miss Jane McGrew, Mrs. Henry McB. Parker and Mrs. R. Post Eddy.

ROUND AND ABOUT: Clipped Mrs. Henry Bourneuf (Elizabeth McKean Forbes) and Mrs. Sam Cabot, Jr. (Virginia Ward), of Beverly Farms, dodging snowflakes in front of the Ritz as they hailed a cab for North Station. Dining and dancing at the Oval Room of the Copley place the other evening were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Choate (Jane Harte) and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meyer (Suzanne Sayburn), both girls attractive in black informal dinner gowns.

Students at Pine Manor Junior College who donated a boxing ring to West Roxbury Veterans' Hospital will be entertained at tea Sunday when the ring will be dedicated. Hosts to the students will be Dr. Houghton Baxley, hospital manager, Dr. Morton Hoberman, and representatives of the Red Cross. Guests will include Mrs. Maria W. Potter, president of Pine Manor; Mrs. E. E. Myer, dean, and Miss Hetty S. Wheeler, academic dean.

A Few Quick Tricks Needed To Overcome Limited Time

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

IT'S ALWAYS A GOOD IDEA to have a couple of tricks up your sleeve for quick when time is at a premium. In one answer. When the cooked breakfast cereal is prepared, plan for a little extra, mold in a loaf pan and chill. At lunch or supper time slice the cereal, fry until browned and crisp and serve hot with warmed honey trickled over the top.

Another quick trick which always scores high with the whole family, is a platter of hot griddle cakes. Honey and griddle cakes go together like ham and eggs. You can make them into an extra special combination by adding a dash or two of cinnamon to the honey, or by mixing one part orange juice with two parts honey. And don't forget the ready-mixes at your grocers' for making pancakes, muffins, etc., when getting up a quick meal.

In the absence of ready-mixes, here is a quick and easy recipe to follow:

GRIDDLE CAKES

2½ cups sifted flour
5 tsp. baking powder
1 tbsp. sugar
1 tsp. salt
1 egg, slightly beaten
2 cups milk
¾ cup shortening, melted
Mix and sift dry ingredients. Combine slightly beaten egg and milk and stir into dry ingredients. Stir in shortening. Bake on both sides on ungreased hot griddle. Add more milk if thinner cakes are desired. Makes about 18 cakes. (If the recipe is divided in half, use 1 egg yolk or decrease milk if whole egg is used.)

Simple but most satisfying is a bowl of soup or a salad served with hot baking powder biscuits and honey. The biscuits are especially good with honey butter.

BAKING POWDER BISCUITS

2 cups sifted flour
3 tsp. baking powder
¾ tsp. salt
¼ cup shortening
¾ cup milk (about)
Mix and sift dry ingredients. Cut in shortening with pastry blender or with 2 knives until the consistency of coarse cornmeal. Stir in milk to make a smooth dough. Turn out on slightly-floured board, knead ½ minute, and roll lightly to thickness of ½ inch. Cut in 2-inch rounds with floured cutter. Bake on ungreased sheet in a hot oven (450 deg. F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Makes 14 to 16 biscuits.

Even quick lunches need a dessert to make them complete. Pecan honey toast is as easy as AEC to fix and you'll be as proud as Punch with the result. Remove crusts from slices of bread. Toast. Spread generously with honey butter and sprinkle with chopped pecans. Place in oven for a few minutes. Serve with a spoonful of whipped cream. (Other nut meats may be used in place of pecans.)

NOVEL DESSERT

Another quick and attractive dessert is made by spreading a slice of jelly roll with whipped cream and topping with a canned peach half. It resembles a dropped egg on toast and is most delicious.

MAPLE NUT SAUCE

1 cup maple syrup
¼ cup thin cream
¼ cup salted pecans or almonds
Boil maple syrup five minutes. Add cream, stirring constantly. Stir in nut meats, whole or sliced. Serve hot with ice cream. Makes six servings.

PANCAKE PIE

To return to the pancakes again, here is a smart idea for dessert. Stack five or six large cakes with tart jelly between. Top with a sprinkling of confectioners' sugar and cut in wedges like a pie. Or fill small pancakes with jelly, roll up and sprinkle with sugar.

Fashion

BOLEROS are big fashion news for spring for suit and dress costumes . . . and this Foxbrownie afternoon dress is a sparkling example of the trend. In brown and white Jo-Jo print . . . it features revers and sashed midriff of brown crepe . . . a color combination enjoying high popularity for the new season. And the high, wide and handsome hat is perfect complement for the outfit.—R. M.

Telling Brother Girl Jilted Him

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

A sad and perplexing duty has come to me. Several months ago my brother's girl (he is in the service) eloped and married another serviceman. My brother doesn't know this, still thinks she's "his girl" still writes to her and sends her gifts. I wish you would please give me some idea of what to write to him, for I've started so many letters and torn them all up because they didn't seem to say the right thing. And since he's bound to find out sometime, I'd rather he finds out through me. Will you please help?

A SERVICEMAN'S SISTER.

I have a feeling that perhaps in the letters you've written your brother (and wisely torn up), you're dissatisfied with the unpleasant comments you've made about your brother's "friend" and her career disrepute in not telling your brother about her marriage. Naturally your loving and protective devotion to your brother, and your bitter resentment at this girl's silence to him about her marriage and her dumb acceptance of his gifts and letters, make you want to strike out at her in your letter to him. But this course is not for you, and such comments are not in good taste, not discreet, not necessary—for the mere fact of your news about her, presented by you merely as a fact with no embellishments or recrimination, will certainly be forceful enough. So write him that "I have something to tell you that you must know, although, dear Bill, it is very difficult for me to write this news to you."

Then tell him the facts—and don't let your pen run on to any comments about the girl, what you think about her or "ever did think about her."

The 28-Day Diet

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

THE WEIGHT of the transgressor is heavy. Once you start to reduce . . . don't toss in the sponge in a moment of weakness . . . and then start again. Don't be a wishy-washy gal. If you start . . . see it through to the finish and enjoy the bounty of that glorious climax.

Be a follow-through person on a weight-reducing regime . . . and you'll develop a follow-through personality on all other vital interests in life. It's that outgoing reaction that usually brings success and happiness and wins friends. And won't it be sweet music to the ears when the boy friend or office colleagues pay flattering tribute to your efforts?

Like a healthy body . . . rhythmic exercise helps you fight fatigue, conserve energy, save nerves, improve circulation and discipline pounds. We don't suggest you embark on an exhaustive program of calisthenics . . . we don't like it ourselves . . . but a few twirls and twists every morning or night will supplement the diet and help speed up the dissipation of surplus fat.

Exercise only about three minutes the first few days . . . and gradually work up to a 10-minute drill. And if your strength and energy can stand it . . . do these drills morning and night. But don't try the entire schedule all at once. Don't be like the man who thought he knew more than the doctor . . . and took the whole box of pills at once for what he thought would be an immediate cure . . . when the prescription read two pills at three-hour intervals.

Consistent regularity is what counts . . . and along with this restrictive diet . . . a few slimming and grace-producing exercises will sculpture your frame into firm contours.

When you get up in the morning . . . stretch from head to heels and take some good deep breaths near an open window. Air condition your body. Give the blood some extra oxygen. Then on with the exercise . . . concentrating on the stubborn places where the bulges are boomier.

1—Lean forward over the back of a chair, trying to touch the front legs of the chair as far down as possible. Repeat this about 10 times after you've accustomed your body to exercise . . . but only three or four times the first few days.

2—Sit on the floor and rock on the hips. Leaning back on the hands . . . raise the legs off the floor and keep rocking. "Walk" forward and backward on the hips . . . shifting from left to right. Stenographers please take notice . . . or any of you gals who sit most of the day.

3—Sit on the floor, legs apart, knees straight, arms stretched upward. From this position . . . lie down slowly . . . pushing the stomach in and out again. About six times will do the trick.

4—Sit on the heels, hands on the floor. Jump back . . . straightening the legs and trying to touch the heels to the floor. Return to position and repeat no more than 10 times.

5—Lie on the back, arms flat on the floor, and describe a large circle . . . First with one leg, then with the other leg. Repeat up to 10 times with each leg.

6—Sit on the floor and grasp knees with the hands. Relaxing the head . . . rock back and forth . . . holding the knees firmly all the while. Up to 10 times for this one.

These simple exercises constitute an architectural blueprint that will increase body efficiency as your faithful subscription to the diet will slice off pounds.

In tomorrow's Boston Evening American we'll cite a reducer's 10 commandments.

Pinched Face Not Lovely

WHAT WOMAN doesn't want to keep her skin smooth, soft and lovely in spite of the thermometer? The Hepzibah look isn't the pretty look. Nor is any face that is pinched and drawn the lovely lady look.

American women are pretty hard-working women . . . scrupulously so, for the today as it is . . . interested and anxious to enrich woman's role in a world disrupted. Careerist or housewife . . . it behooves every woman to look her best . . . the best which others admire and extol.

Here's a lanolin base lotion . . . delicately scented . . . whose glamorous past should inspire every intriguing woman today. Designed for one of history's most formidable royal ladies . . . it is good today as it was centuries back when it was "exclusively hers" . . . a lotion that will see your skin smoothly, beautifully, fragrantly through all winter trials and tribulations.

You know how nicely lanolin gets along with it, and oils in your skin . . . so you appreciate the efficacy of this lotion which supplements them and complements you. It smooths down wind roughened hands and faces . . . and refreshes skin that's parched and flaky from dry, steam-heated homes and offices. Use it before your makeup, too, to make that important cosmetic linger longer.

For the name of this extraordinary lotion, phone the Beauty Dept., Liberty 4000, or write Ruth Mugglebee, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bridal Attendants Presented Gifts

I AM PLANNING to have a formal wedding and am to have a maid of honor, a matron of honor, and six bridesmaids. I have bought each of them an important gift and would like to make a feature of presenting these gifts to my attendants. What would be the best and most appropriate plan? RITA

When the bride's plans for her wedding are as elaborate and important as yours are, she usually gives a luncheon for her attendants the day before the wedding, and at this party she gives them their gifts.

OPA Borrows a Bit Of Gestapo Technique

By AUSTEN LAKE

HERE'S A DOCUMENT THAT could have served as a text book for the freshman class in a Nazi Gestapo college. Its a primary lesson published by the OPA for its investigators, entitled "The Technique of Interviewing" persons suspected of violating price ceilings. It instructs the OPA price sleuths how to trap, entangle and confuse a suspected grocer, or cafe owner or retailer into incriminating self and associates.

Austen Lake

The text should be titled "The Art of Inquisition, or How to Ambush Your Victim." Here are some excerpts, culled from the fulsome text. And do you find that this conforms to sound American principle, as we learned it in the little red schoolhouse?

OPA instructs its investigator: "Get him (Ed—the suspect) to talk about himself. . . He has likes, dislikes, hobbies, pet ideas. . . The witness will furnish you many clues as to his personality and these in turn will point out the weak spots in his makeup. . . When facts indicate another person may be involved with the witness, phrase your questioning to transfer the blame. . . Make the witness feel that he is not telling you anything you do not already know."

And This Is the U. S. A.

"SOMETIMES THE FACTUAL situation is such that you can work a good bluff on the witness. Ascertain the status between the witness and the third parties. . . if there is animosity play this factor up by inference in the witness' mind. . . Point out that he is possibly being played for a sucker. . . Each little pinpoint of confusion that you make in the witness will make him want to 'sing' to get even. . . When he 'sings' you write the music."

"Use of double or alternate questions is sometimes effective (Ed—obviously to confuse the suspect and trap him into thoughtless admissions). . . Play on his sympathies in connection with his family, his standing in the community, his citizenship, his lodge affiliations. . . Use a slow, deliberate and methodical summation of the facts. . . This crystallizes the witness' adverse position."

"Don't be afraid of a little silence on the part of the witness. . . It generally indicates that his nervous tension is building up, which is exactly what is desired. . . Take notes when he justifies himself. . . This makes him feel good and he may be telling you the defense his attorney may use in his case. . . Arrange for a definite appointment with him later. . . his second contact will have given him some time to 'stew' and you will give yourself another shot at breaking him."

Mind you this is a document printed for price-enforcement officials in the home of the free and the land of the brave. I have a twin document, a translation of a German text for teaching SS (Schutzstaffel) examiners how to extort confessions of guilt from prisoners suspected of sabotaging the Nazi war effort. It was found in the rabid Hitler stronghold of Ohrdruf, where the Fourth Armored liberated a large prison camp containing numerous wooden sheds stacked high with emaciated bodies waiting incineration.

Note the parallel in ideology and phrasing between the following transcript and that of the OPA. The German translation reads: "Where the guilt of suspects (Argwohnen) is not proved, do not at first resort to violent forms of persuasion. Talk calmly without threats, though it is recommended that a display of persuasive instruments be casually made in the room of interrogation."

"Attempt to get the suspect to incriminate his associates by hinting that it might lighten his own punishment, or even absolve him from penalty. Stress the known facts and give an impression of holding back the full damning evidence to catch him in lies."

Twin Systems

"EXPERT PATIENCE IN THE knowledge that each suspect, however minor in appearance, may be the key that unlocks a serious conspiracy against the State. . . Only resort to violent persuasion when all other means have failed and the suspect is stubbornly unresponsive. . . Then use whatever means are at your command with the free conscience that you are safeguarding the State. . . It is your sworn duty to extract information by guile (Arglist) or force (Zwang) in such order of procedure."

And that was Germany in the years of our Lord 1940 to '45—the most bestial regime in modern history. And yet there is a strange resemblance between the language and message used by this Schutzstaffel text of the OPA. Note for example that the OPA counsel to "Make the witness feel that he is not telling you anything you do not already know," while that of the SS reads "Give the impression of holding back the full damning evidence to catch him in lies."

The OPA says "Play upon his sympathies," and the SS says "Talk calmly without threats." And the OPA instructs, "Ascertain the status and degree of friendship between the witness and third parties," while the SS adjures "Attempt to get the suspects to incriminate his associates."

The only thing that the SS advises which the OPA ignores is a final recommendation to use force and the "instruments of persuasion" which the 4th Armored captured in the infamous prison colony at Ohrdruf—the nicked-steel squeezing-chain with its twisting lever to bite into the victim's flesh and crush his wrist bones; the wooden pillar where the victim was pinioned while SS guards lashed him with a tawhide whip; the padded club and the cramped box where the prisoner crouched till his circulation stopped.

In either document the "technique of the interview" is based on guile and stratagem in an attempt to coerce or intimidate the witness into establishing his own guilt. It is a curious thing to discover the U. S. using the old world, "agent provocateur" method of snaring its suspects with technical trickery. And its high time that this nation take cognizance of such trends before it works up and finds constitutional liberties and our Bill of Rights abrogated by stealth, artifice and chicanery such as this.

Riddled Bruins Face Fast Moving Toronto

injuries, some mediocre goal tending by Baz Bastien coupled with inferior play on the part of veterans, caused the entire Toronto machine to disintegrate.

Smythe was roundly and soundly criticized for the stand he took with McCool. And the critics "leed off" on Day after almost every defeat in an effort to make themselves look good in the eyes of their public after the "rave" stories they'd written about the Leafs.

The Leafs will be in quest of their fifth straight win tonight. A stern chase is a long chase but, despite the fact they are three games behind Detroit and have played three more games than the Red Wings, Toronto still is a definite threat to Jolly Jawn Adams and his Motor City puck-chasers.

The Bruins will not be at the peak of their physical condition tonight. With few exceptions, the Rossens came out of the weekend series with Les Canadiens battered and bruised. Milt Schmidt who has a chipped finger bone, aggravated his groin injury in New York and was in bad shape after Sunday's game. Murray Henderson now has a bad shoulder and "Beppo" Guidolin has a slightly pulled leg muscle.

4 Skaters' Grads in Servicemen's Race

Four graduates of the Silver Skates competition of past years will be swinging into the special servicemen's event Sunday afternoon at the Boston Garden where another capacity crowd is anticipated for the 11th annual ice carnival—the bargain of the year in ice skating shows.

They'll be facing a selected field of servicemen that will include nine fliers from the U. S. Navy; one from the Coast Guard and one from the U. S. Army.

Two of this group, Al Broadhurst, U. S. N., of Rosindale and Leo Laville, U. S. N., of Pawlucket, R. I., have chalked up triumphs in the men's senior event. Broadhurst, on leave from his Bainbridge, Md., base, completed a clean sweep of all classes last winter. Laville took top honors in the 1937 classic.

Other Silver Skates graduates include Walter Delaney, USN, of Providence, R. I., and Edgar Dame, USN, of Revere. Delaney won the junior event three years ago while Dame captured the intermediate title two winters ago. Dame, like John Van Olden, USN, of New York, intends to double up in the servicemen's event and compete in the men's senior championship.

Miss Erna Anderson, featured skating specialist of the program, has arrived in town and already she's been testing out the ice at the local arenas. She wants to make sure that she's ready for the best performance of her career.

Meanwhile, Director Ben Levias has boosted the entertainment side of the Silver Skates program with three new acts.

He has signed the Daffydils—Joe Lewis and Howie Adams—to provide comedy on skates. Then, he has induced Charlie Brinkman of Philadelphia, to make a special trip here to team up with Patty Sonnekson, Colorado Springs, Colorado, in pairs skating. Miss Sonnekson will also dance in a four-song set with Faris Nourse, New York; Roberta Burns, Providence, R. I.; and Bonita Patterson, Champaign, Ill.

Woburn Quintet Tests R. I. School Star

By MIKE GILLOOLY

There'll be three games on the schoolboy basketball program at Boston Garden tomorrow afternoon and, as is customary, the meat of the sandwich will be in the middle of the card when the South Kingston High five of Rhode Island tangles with Woburn.

The Watertown vs. Stonington (Ct.) and Inimicable Conception vs. Biddford (Me.) contests will be incidental to the debut of the highly publicized Bruce Blount, 6'4 inch Kingston star.

Blount, living in the shadow of Frank Keane, Sr., and his R. I. State team, has virtually grown up on a basketball court. He was a former mascot for the college team last year, according to all reports, when Rhody was short-handed, Blount used to practice against the Rams and he made some of the reserves look useless on the floor.

He's the same, classy dead-eye who chalked up 65 points in a game last winter and ended up with the second highest schoolboy total in R. I. interscholastic ranks. Numerous colleges have been chasing this youngster but apparently he's headed for the senior Keane's club. Incidentally, he chalked up his 65 points against the Stonington team that will be sharing in this inter-sectional triple-header.

The entire South Kingston student body will be on hand to root their team home and they're certain that Blount will account for 20-25 points against Woburn.

Blount will be the Keane representative in this game and Keane's sons will provide action in the other games.

Frank Keane, Jr., will bring his first Watertown quintet into the Garden last Friday night and frankly, the younger Keane does not look forward to too much success. He's been trying to build up interest in the sport as much as possible with the Townies, going so far as to recommend a weekly clinic for the public, copied after the New York American-Journal's school.

Watertown's club will have Benny Akilian and Demo Zevitos at the forwards; Billy Wiekstrom, a sparkplug, at center, and Capt. Hank Germain, the only veteran, and Lefty Tashjian, at guards.

Another Keane, Warner, will be bringing his Biddford club into the Woburn game to make it complete representation for the afternoon.

2 College Presidents To Attend H. C. Fete

Two college presidents will have a home-coming at the Holy Cross Club of Boston dinner for presentation of the Capt. Edward J. O'Melia Trophy to Jim Dikeman, Crusader end, at Hotel Kenmore tonight.

Very Rev. William J. Hickey, S. J., of Holy Cross, who declared himself a substitute speaker after basketball coach Alvin "Doggie" Julius was stricken ill, is a native of Boston. Very Rev. William L. Keleher, S. J., will head an imposing Boston College delegation.

Foley Race Big Hit

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Recreational skiers are already showing much interest in the Walter Foley Memorial Ski Race, sponsored by the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser, to be run Feb. 16 and 17, on the huge Mittersill Club Open Slope, at Franconia, N. H. "It's really a great chance for the week-end skiers to get a taste of competition, as well as have some fun," declared one of the numerous enthusiasts with whom we talked recently concerning the slalom, which offers three fine trophies in both the men's and women's divisions.

A field to honor a former staff artist, who met a hero's death on Guadalcanal, this contest will be unlimited in the number of entries, and there is no fee. Classified racers can not enter, however. Simply send your name, age, and address to this writer, care of the Boston American, or to Bernard Herbert, Director, Mittersill Club Sports Area, Franconia, N. H.

H. This expert, an ex-Mountain Trooper, will aid in conducting the slalom and setting the course. He will also take reservations in the region for the week-end of the race.

Norman LeDuc, president of the Jericho Ski Club, Marlboro, Mass., sends word that at least two or three of his colleagues plan to enter this event. The club held its monthly meeting last Monday evening, where details of the competition were discussed. Since the Jericho outfit is composed entirely of recreational skiers, the boys and girls were delighted at the chance to wear their colors in a race which suits their respective skills on the slats.

Foley Memorial Ski Race is most welcome, but this slalom is being staged for individual performers, and one may race unattached.

SKI SCRIBBLINGS: Monday's storm brought cheer to local skiers, and if the weather remains cold, all suburban towns will roll the week-end. Those who donned their hickories yesterday found fast running, with plenty of breakable crust. There is sufficient cover everywhere.

THE STEEL STRIKE

A TALK BY BENJAMIN F. FAIRLESS, PRESIDENT OF UNITED STATES STEEL CORP., SPONSORED BY AMERICAN IRON AND STEEL INSTITUTE.

TONIGHT

WCOP—10 P. M.

EX-HASKELL STAR KILLED
DENVER (AP)—John Thomas Levi, a 49-year-old Indian, tentatively identified by Det. Capt. James E. Childers as a star of the famous 1923 Haskell Institute football team, was stabbed to death today in a hotel room. A 37-year-old woman was held for investigation. No charges had been filed last night. Levi played in Boston against B. C. at Braves Field in the early 20's.
